Commitment to Development Index 2007

Germany

David Roodman and Selvin Akkus

The Commitment to Development Index (CDI) ranks 21 of the world's richest countries based on their dedication to policies that benefit poor nations. Looking beyond standard comparisons of foreign aid flows, the CDI measures national effort in seven policy areas that are important to developing countries: aid, trade, investment, migration, environment, security and technology. This report reviews Germany's performance on the 2007 CDI.

Germany's 2007 CDI Performance

- Overall rank 2007: 12
  - Overall score 2007: 5.2
  - Change since 2003: -0.1
- (using 2007 methodology)

Germany ranks 12th overall in 2007. Germany's environmental performance from the perspective of developing countries is among the best in the CDI. Germany also has a large inflow of immigrants from poor countries and has taken steps that promote German investment in the developing world. But Germany would score higher if it increased participation in international peacekeeping efforts and provided more support for the creation and dissemination of technological advances.

Commitment to Development Index 2007

Germany's CDI Performance, 2003-2007

Aid

Aid quality is just as important as aid quantity, so the CDI measures gross aid as a share of GDP adjusted for various quality factors: it subtracts debt service, penalizes “tied” aid that makes recipients spend aid only on donor goods and services, rewards aid to poor but relatively uncorrupt recipients, and penalizes overloading poor governments with many small projects.

■ Score: 2.6

■ Rank: 17

Strengths

- Large amount of private charitable giving attributable to tax policies (rank by share of GDP: 9)

Weaknesses

- Low net aid volume as a share of the economy (0.23%; rank: 15)
- Large share of tied or partially tied aid (10%; rank: 13)
- Selectivity: large share of aid to less poor and relatively less democratic governments (rank: 15)

Trade

International trade has been a force for economic development for centuries. The CDI measures trade barriers in rich countries against exports from developing countries.

■ Score: 5.4

■ Rank: 11

Weaknesses

- High tariffs on agricultural products (40.4% of the value of imports; rank: 15)
- High agricultural subsidies (equivalent to 14.8% tariff; rank: 19)

Investment

Rich-country investment in poorer countries can transfer technologies, upgrade management and create jobs. The CDI includes a checklist of policies that support healthy investment in developing countries.

■ Score: 8.0

■ Rank: 2

Strengths

- Provides insurance against political risk for both domestic and foreign firms
- Employs tax-sparing arrangements to prevent double taxation of corporate profits earned abroad
- Particularly active in the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) and in the G-8 Anti-Corruption and Transparency Action Plan

Weaknesses

- Negligent in identifying bribery and corrupt practices on the part of home country firms abroad
- Does not provide support for outflows of portfolio investment

Migration

The movement of people from poor to rich countries provides unskilled immigrants with jobs, income and knowledge. This increases the flow of money sent home by migrants abroad and the transfer of skills when the migrants return.

■ Score: 6.0

■ Rank: 7

Strengths

- Bears large share of the burden of refugees during humanitarian crises (rank: 2)
- Large number of immigrants from developing countries entering Germany (rank by share of population: 6)
- Large share of foreign students from developing countries (78%; rank: 9)
- No tuition fee for foreign students

Environment

Rich countries use a disproportionate amount of scarce resources, and poor countries are most vulnerable to global warming and ecological deterioration, so the CDI measures the impact of policies on the global climate, fisheries, and biodiversity.

■ Score: 6.5

■ Rank: 8

Strengths

- Significant decline in greenhouse gas emissions rate in 1995–2005 (average annual growth rate/GDP, –2.4%; rank: 9)
- High gas taxes ($1.04 per liter; rank: 4)
- Low fishing subsidies ($0.10 per person; rank: 6)

Weaknesses

- Large number of endangered species imports (rank: 17)

Security

Since security is a prerequisite for development, the CDI rewards contributions to internationally sanctioned peacekeeping operations and forcible humanitarian interventions, rewards military protection of global sea lanes, and penalizes arms exports to poor and undemocratic governments.

■ Score: 3.6

■ Rank: 16

Weaknesses

- Small financial and personnel contributions to internationally sanctioned peacekeeping and humanitarian interventions over last decade (rank by share of GDP: 16)
- No protection of global sea lanes

Technology

Rich countries contribute to development through the creation and dissemination of new technologies. The CDI captures this by measuring government support for R&D and penalizing strong intellectual property rights regimes that limit the dissemination of new technologies to poor countries.

■ Score: 4.3

■ Rank: 18

Strengths

- High government expenditure on R&D (rank by share of GDP: 6)

Weaknesses

- Low tax subsidy rate to businesses for R&D (rank: 21)
- Does not issue compulsory licenses for purposes of expanding access to technology

This table ranks the 21 countries in the CDI, showing their scores in seven policy areas. A country's overall score is the average of its seven policy scores. The final column shows the change in each country's overall score since the CDI began in 2003, using 2007 methodology.

The CGD website (www.cgdev.org/cdi) has reports on each of the 21 countries in the CDI, as well as graphs, maps, spreadsheets and background papers.

The Commitment to Development Index is designed by the Center for Global Development, an independent think tank that works to reduce global poverty and inequality by encouraging policy change in the United States and other rich countries through rigorous research and active engagement with the policy community.

David Roodman, the architect of the Commitment to Development Index, is a research fellow at the Center for Global Development.
